LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF GRACE J. PARSONS

I, Grace J. Parsons, a resident of Austin, Texas, being of sound mind and acting voluntarily, make this instrument my Last Will and Testament (this "Will"). I intend this Will to dispose of all property that I may legally dispose of by will at my death. I revoke every prior will and codicil made by me.

ARTICLE I. REVOCATION AND DECLARATIONS

1.1 Revocation. I revoke all prior wills and codicils. This Will is effective upon my death and does not revoke any beneficiary designation, joint ownership arrangement, trust agreement, or other nonprobate transfer except to the extent such instrument is revocable by this Will under applicable law.

1.2 Marital status. I am married to Thomas A. Parsons (my "Spouse"). References in this Will to my Spouse mean Thomas A. Parsons. I have two children: Timothy S. Parsons and Joshua J. Parsons. References to my "Children" mean these two persons and any child of mine born or adopted after I sign this Will, unless the context clearly requires otherwise.

1.3 Descendants. "Descendants" means a person's lineal descendants of every generation, including legally adopted descendants and descendants of a person conceived before, but born after, the relevant date. A person is not treated as a descendant of mine solely by reason of a step-relationship unless legally adopted by me.

ARTICLE II. SURVIVORSHIP AND CONSTRUCTION

2.1 Survival period. A beneficiary must survive me by 120 hours to receive a gift under this Will. A person who does not survive me for that period, or whose order of death cannot be established by clear and convincing evidence, is treated as having predeceased me. This provision does not apply where its application would invalidate a transfer or violate controlling law.

2.2 References to property and estate. "My estate" means all property, real or personal, tangible or intangible, wherever located, that I own at death and that is subject to disposition under this Will, including my separate property and my interest, if any, in community property. This Will disposes only of my interest and does not impair any property or statutory rights belonging to another person, including my Spouse's interest in community property.

2.3 Per stirpes. Whenever a gift is made to a person's descendants per stirpes, the property is divided into equal shares at the first generation below that person having one or more living descendants, with a share for each living descendant at that generation and a share for each deceased descendant at that generation who left living descendants; the latter share is divided in the same manner among that descendant's descendants.

2.4 Disclaimers. A beneficiary who makes a qualified disclaimer is treated, to the extent of the disclaimed property, as having predeceased me, unless applicable law requires a different result.

ARTICLE III. PAYMENT OF EXPENSES AND DISPOSITION OF THE RESIDUE

3.1 Administration expenses and enforceable debts. I direct my Independent Executor to pay from my estate my legally enforceable debts, funeral expenses, expenses of last illness, expenses of administration, and any court-ordered family allowance, in the manner and order the Executor considers advisable under applicable law. My Executor may pay a secured debt or allow a beneficiary to take property subject to it, as the Executor determines to be appropriate.

3.2 Taxes. My Executor may pay from my residuary estate any estate, inheritance, succession, or similar death tax attributable to property included in my taxable estate, whether or not passing under this Will, except to the extent a controlling law requires apportionment or I have expressly directed otherwise. My Executor may seek contribution or reimbursement when appropriate. No beneficiary is given a right to compel a particular tax election or allocation.

3.3 Primary gift to Spouse. If my Spouse survives me by 120 hours, I give all of my estate, including the entire residue and any property not otherwise effectively disposed of, to my Spouse, outright and free of trust. This gift is subject to payment of expenses under this Article and to the limitations stated in this Will and applicable law.

3.4 Gift to Children if Spouse does not survive. If my Spouse does not survive me by 120 hours, I give my estate to my Children who survive me by 120 hours, in equal shares, by representation for the descendants of any Child who does not so survive me. The share of each beneficiary who has not attained age twenty-five (25) when distributable shall be held and administered as a separate trust under Article IV. A beneficiary who has attained age twenty-five (25) shall receive that beneficiary's share outright, subject to any applicable representation rule.

3.5 Ultimate contingent beneficiaries. If neither my Spouse nor any of my descendants survives me by 120 hours, I give my entire estate in equal shares to Sarah R. Roberts and Howard C. Long, if they survive me by 120 hours. If only one of them so survives, that survivor shall receive the entire gift. If neither survives, my estate shall pass to my heirs at law as determined under Texas law, as though I had died intestate owning the property.

3.6 Residuary intent. The gifts in this Article are intended to dispose of all of my estate. Any lapsed, ineffective, or undisposed portion shall pass to the persons then entitled to the residue under this Article, in the same proportions, or, if no such person exists, to my heirs at law under Texas law.

ARTICLE IV. TESTAMENTARY TRUST FOR BENEFICIARIES UNDER AGE 25

4.1 Creation and funding. A share directed to be held in trust under this Article shall be set aside as a separate trust for the beneficiary (the "Beneficiary"). The Trustee shall hold, manage, invest, and distribute the trust estate under this Article. The trust is created at my death and may receive property from my Executor in cash or in kind, subject to reasonable reserves for administration.

4.2 Trustee. I appoint Sarah R. Roberts as Trustee of each trust created under this Article. If she fails or ceases to serve, I appoint Howard C. Long as successor Trustee. If neither is able and willing to serve, a successor Trustee shall be appointed by a court with jurisdiction, or by a majority of the adult current beneficiaries if a court appointment is not required and applicable law permits. No Trustee shall be required to furnish bond except as a court may require under applicable law.

4.3 Distributions before termination. Until termination, the Trustee may distribute to or for the Beneficiary as much of the income and principal as the Trustee, in the Trustee's sole and absolute discretion, considers advisable for the Beneficiary's health, education, maintenance, support, welfare, and reasonable comfort. The Trustee may consider other resources known to the Trustee but is not required to do so. The Trustee may make unequal distributions among beneficiaries and is not required to equalize them.

ARTICLE IV. TESTAMENTARY TRUST FOR BENEFICIARIES UNDER AGE 25 (CONTINUED)

4.4 Method of payment. The Trustee may pay a distribution directly to the Beneficiary, to a parent or guardian, to a custodian under the Texas Uniform Transfers to Minors Act or similar law, or directly to a school, provider, or other person furnishing goods or services for the Beneficiary. A receipt from the payee fully discharges the Trustee for the amount paid. The Trustee may retain income and add it to principal.

4.5 Mandatory distribution at age 25; maximum duration. Subject to the outside limit in this Section, the Trustee shall distribute the remaining trust estate to the Beneficiary outright when the Beneficiary attains age twenty-five (25). Notwithstanding any other provision, each trust created under this Will shall terminate no later than the twenty-first (21st) anniversary of my death. If the Beneficiary has not attained age 25 by that date, the Trustee shall distribute the remaining trust estate outright to the Beneficiary on that date. The 21-year limit controls over any inconsistent age-based provision.

4.6 Death of Beneficiary. If the Beneficiary dies before complete distribution of the trust, the remaining trust estate shall be distributed to the Beneficiary's then-living descendants, per stirpes, outright or in further trust under this Article for each recipient under age 25. If the Beneficiary leaves no then-living descendants, the remaining trust estate shall be added proportionately to the separate trusts or shares then held for my other descendants under this Will. If none exists, the property shall be distributed to the persons who would have received it under Article III had the deceased Beneficiary predeceased me.

4.7 Spendthrift protection. To the fullest extent permitted by Texas law, no interest of a Beneficiary in income or principal may be voluntarily or involuntarily assigned, transferred, pledged, anticipated, encumbered, or reached by a creditor before actual receipt by the Beneficiary. The Trustee shall not recognize an attempted transfer or be required to make payment to a creditor. This provision does not enlarge any protection beyond that allowed by law or restrict a distribution the Trustee otherwise elects to make.

4.8 Discretionary trust; no withdrawal right. Before actual distribution, a Beneficiary has no right to compel a discretionary distribution or to require the Trustee to retain, sell, or distribute any particular asset. The trust is intended to be discretionary and spendthrift to the maximum extent permitted by law.

4.9 Separate shares and administration. The Trustee may maintain separate accounting for each Beneficiary, allocate receipts and expenses among shares in a reasonable manner, and make distributions in cash or in kind. The Trustee may allocate specific assets among separate shares at values determined in good faith without requiring identical assets or exact proportional ownership of every asset.

4.10 Final distribution. Upon termination of a trust, the Trustee shall distribute the remaining trust estate as directed in this Article, free of trust. The Trustee may retain a reasonable reserve for taxes, expenses, or liabilities and distribute that reserve when no longer needed.

ARTICLE V. POWERS AND PROTECTIONS OF TRUSTEE

5.1 General standard. The Trustee shall administer each trust in good faith, in accordance with its terms and applicable Texas law. Subject to fiduciary duties, the Trustee has all powers available under the Texas Trust Code, as amended, and the following powers, exercisable without prior court approval unless required by law.

5.2 Property and investment powers. The Trustee may retain property received from my Executor, including a concentrated or nonproductive asset, for a reasonable period; acquire, hold, manage, invest, and reinvest in any kind of property or investment; open and maintain accounts; vote securities; participate in reorganizations; and exercise options, conversions, and other rights relating to trust property.

5.3 Sale, lease, and exchange. The Trustee may sell at public or private sale, exchange, partition, convey, mortgage, pledge, lease, repair, improve, develop, abandon, or otherwise dispose of any trust property, real or personal, on terms the Trustee considers appropriate. The Trustee may execute deeds and other instruments and may distribute assets in cash or in kind.

5.4 Claims, contracts, and expenses. The Trustee may settle, compromise, arbitrate, prosecute, defend, or abandon claims by or against a trust; employ and compensate attorneys, accountants, investment advisers, property managers, and other agents; incur reasonable expenses; and pay taxes, insurance, maintenance, and administration costs from income or principal as the Trustee determines.

5.5 Borrowing and business interests. The Trustee may borrow money for a trust, with or without security, from any lender including a related fiduciary if the transaction is fair and lawful; renew or refinance indebtedness; and continue, reorganize, sell, or liquidate any business interest held in trust. No Trustee is required to contribute personal funds.

5.6 Distributions and receipts. The Trustee may make distributions in cash, in kind, or partly in each; allocate particular assets among beneficiaries at values determined in good faith; make tax elections and allocate tax attributes as permitted by law; and rely on receipts, records, and reasonable evidence of identity and age. The Trustee may make a payment to a guardian or custodian for a minor without supervising its later use.

5.7 Delegation and reliance. The Trustee may delegate functions prudently to qualified agents to the extent permitted by law and may rely in good faith on professional advice. The Trustee shall not be liable for an agent's act or omission if the Trustee's selection and oversight satisfy applicable fiduciary standards.

5.8 Compensation, records, and liability. A Trustee is entitled to reasonable compensation and reimbursement of reasonable expenses. The Trustee shall maintain records and provide information or accountings to the extent required by law. No Trustee is liable for an act or omission except for the Trustee's own breach of fiduciary duty, bad faith, willful misconduct, or gross negligence, to the extent such limitation is enforceable under applicable law.

ARTICLE VI. GUARDIANSHIP NOMINATIONS

6.1 Guardian of the person. If, at my death, a guardian of the person is required for any minor Child of mine, I nominate Sarah R. Roberts to serve as guardian of the person of that Child. If Sarah R. Roberts is unable or unwilling to serve, I nominate Howard C. Long as alternate guardian. I request that any court with jurisdiction appoint the nominee who is qualified and whose appointment is in the Child's best interests, without bond to the extent permitted by law.

6.2 Guardian of the estate. If a guardian of the estate is required for property belonging to a minor Child, I nominate the Trustee then serving under Article IV to serve in that capacity, if eligible and appointed by the court. If that person is not eligible or willing to serve, I nominate the alternate Trustee, and thereafter a qualified person selected by a court with jurisdiction. I request that bond be waived to the extent permitted by law.

6.3 Temporary local guardian. If a minor Child needs immediate local care after my death before the permanent guardian can take possession, I nominate Michael T. Fisher to serve as temporary local guardian or other temporary caregiver to the extent permitted by law and subject to any required court appointment. This nomination is temporary only and shall end when the permanent guardian is able and legally authorized to assume care. It does not confer authority that applicable law reserves to a court-appointed guardian.

6.4 Limits of nomination. These nominations express my preference but do not themselves transfer custody or create a guardianship. Each nominee must qualify and serve only as authorized by the court and Texas law. My nominations do not displace the rights of a surviving parent or any other person entitled to custody under applicable law.

ARTICLE VII. EXECUTOR AND ADMINISTRATION

7.1 Appointment. I appoint my Spouse, Thomas A. Parsons, as Independent Executor of this Will. If my Spouse fails or ceases to serve, I appoint Sarah R. Roberts as alternate Independent Executor. If neither is able and willing to serve, I request that the court appoint a qualified successor under Texas law.

7.2 Independent administration. I direct that my estate be administered independently, without necessity of action by the probate court other than the probate of this Will, issuance of letters, and other matters that applicable law requires. My Independent Executor may act without further court order to the fullest extent permitted by Texas law.

7.3 Bond and compensation. No Executor shall be required to post bond, except to the extent a court determines bond is mandatory under applicable law. An Executor is entitled to reasonable compensation and reimbursement of reasonable expenses, and may waive compensation in whole or in part.

7.4 Successors and authority. A successor Executor has the same powers and discretion as the original Executor. The term "Executor" includes any Independent Executor and successor serving under this Will. No person is required to monitor another fiduciary, and each fiduciary may rely on the probate records and on written instruments reasonably believed genuine.

7.5 No merger of roles. An individual may serve in more than one fiduciary capacity if appointed and qualified. A person serving as both Executor and Trustee shall keep estate and trust property and records appropriately identified and shall account separately for each capacity.

ARTICLE VIII. POWERS OF INDEPENDENT EXECUTOR

8.1 General powers. In addition to powers conferred by Texas law, my Executor may take any action reasonably necessary or advisable to settle and distribute my estate, without prior court approval except as required by law. The powers in this Article are intended to be broad and cumulative, not exclusive.

8.2 Possession and management. My Executor may take possession of, protect, insure, maintain, repair, improve, manage, and operate estate property; access and control tangible and intangible property; and pay expenses from estate assets. My Executor may continue or wind up a business, farm, or other venture in which I had an interest.

8.3 Sale and transfer. My Executor may sell, exchange, partition, lease, convey, mortgage, pledge, or otherwise dispose of any estate property, at public or private sale, for cash or on credit, upon terms the Executor considers appropriate. The Executor may execute deeds, assignments, releases, tax instruments, and other documents and may make distributions in cash or in kind.

8.4 Claims and administration. My Executor may collect debts and assets; settle, compromise, arbitrate, prosecute, defend, or abandon claims; pay or contest debts; employ and compensate attorneys, accountants, appraisers, brokers, and other agents; and make reasonable reserves for expenses, taxes, claims, and contingent liabilities.

8.5 Discretion over personal property. My Executor shall have sole and absolute discretion, to the fullest extent permitted by law, to identify, retain, sell, or distribute tangible personal property not otherwise effectively disposed of. The Executor may distribute items in kind among the beneficiaries then entitled to receive my estate, decide the recipient of each item, determine values and whether equalization is appropriate, and sell any item and distribute the proceeds. The Executor's good-faith determinations are binding on all beneficiaries, subject to applicable fiduciary duties and law.

8.6 Tax and elections. My Executor may prepare, sign, and file tax returns; make elections and allocations permitted by law; allocate deductions and tax attributes among income and principal or among beneficiaries as permitted by law; and rely on professional advice. No beneficiary may require an election or allocation that the Executor reasonably determines would impair efficient administration.

8.7 Digital assets and records. To the extent authorized by applicable law, my Executor may access, manage, preserve, transfer, or close my digital assets, electronic communications, accounts, devices, and electronically stored records, and may obtain the catalog of electronic communications and other content to which a fiduciary may lawfully be granted access.

8.8 Reliance and discharge. A person dealing with my Executor may rely on a written statement of authority and need not inquire into the propriety of an action. A receipt or release executed by a beneficiary for property actually received discharges the Executor as to that property, except in the case of fraud or other nonwaivable liability.

ARTICLE IX. GENERAL PROVISIONS

9.1 Governing law. This Will and every trust created under it shall be construed under Texas law, except as mandatory law applicable to particular property or administration requires otherwise. The principal place of administration of each trust shall initially be Texas, subject to a lawful change by the Trustee.

9.2 No-contest provision. If any beneficiary, directly or indirectly, contests this Will or a material provision of it, that person's interest shall be determined as if the person had predeceased me, but only to the extent this provision is enforceable under Texas law. This clause does not penalize a beneficiary for seeking a good-faith construction of this Will or for responding to a legal proceeding when required.

9.3 Construction and severability. Headings are for convenience and do not limit the text. The singular includes the plural and vice versa where appropriate; words of any gender include all genders. If any provision is invalid or unenforceable, it shall be severed or reformed to the minimum extent necessary, and the remaining provisions shall remain effective.

9.4 Fiduciary protections. Each fiduciary shall act in accordance with applicable law and the fiduciary's duties. A fiduciary may rely on information reasonably believed to be accurate and may seek court instructions when appropriate. No provision excuses conduct for which liability may not lawfully be waived.

9.5 Counterparts and copies. A copy of this Will may be used as evidence to the extent authorized by Texas law, but I intend the original signed instrument to be admitted to probate. The execution of a copy does not create a separate will.

9.6 Intent. I have considered the provisions of this Will and intend them to be effective according to their terms. If any question arises, my Executor and the court should give effect to the overall plan of (i) giving my estate to my Spouse if my Spouse survives me, (ii) otherwise benefiting my descendants, and (iii) only if no descendant survives me, distributing to the contingent beneficiaries named above.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I, Grace J. Parsons, sign this Will on May 13, 2025, at Austin, Travis County, Texas, and declare to the undersigned witnesses that this instrument is my Last Will and Testament. I sign willingly, while of sound mind, and not under undue influence or duress.
