LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT
OF GRACE J. PARSONS

I, Grace J. Parsons, a resident of Austin, Travis County, Texas, being of sound mind and acting freely, declare this instrument to be my Last Will and Testament (my "Will"). I revoke all prior wills and codicils made by me.

ARTICLE I. FAMILY, DEFINITIONS, AND SCOPE

1.1 Family. I am married to Thomas A. Parsons ("Client Spouse"). I have two children: Timothy S. Parsons and Joshua J. Parsons. In this Will, "my descendants" means my children and their descendants, including descendants legally adopted by me or by any of my descendants, as determined under Texas law. References to a child include a person later born to or legally adopted by me.

1.2 Fiduciary terms. "Executor" means the person serving as independent executor of my estate, including any successor. "Trustee" means the person serving as trustee of a trust created by this Will, including any successor. A fiduciary named in this Will serves only after any acceptance and appointment required by law.

1.3 Estate governed by Will. This Will disposes of all property and interests that I own at my death and that are subject to disposition by my Will, wherever located, including my separate property and my interest in community property. This Will does not dispose of property that passes by valid beneficiary designation, survivorship right, trust, contract, or other nonprobate transfer, or of any property interest belonging to another person.

1.4 Construction. This Will is intended to be construed under Texas law. "Per stirpes" or "by right of representation" means that a deceased descendant's share passes to that descendant's descendants by representation under Texas law. Singular and plural, and gendered and neutral terms, include each other as context requires.

ARTICLE II. DEBTS, EXPENSES, AND TAXES

2.1 Payment. I direct my Executor to pay my legally enforceable debts, funeral and disposition expenses, expenses of my last illness, expenses of administering my estate, and any estate, inheritance, succession, or similar death taxes payable by reason of my death, to the extent the Executor determines payment is proper and consistent with applicable law.

2.2 Source and apportionment. The Executor may pay these amounts from the residue of my probate estate without seeking contribution from a recipient of nonprobate property, except to the extent contribution is required by law or the Executor determines that apportionment is appropriate. My Executor may defer payment of a debt or tax when doing so is prudent or permitted by law.

ARTICLE III. TANGIBLE PERSONAL PROPERTY

3.1 Disposition. I give all tangible personal property owned by me at death, including household goods, furniture, furnishings, clothing, jewelry, vehicles, collections, and personal effects, to the beneficiaries who take my residuary estate under Article IV.

3.2 Executor's sole discretion. My Executor has sole and absolute discretion to determine the manner, timing, and method of distributing tangible personal property, including whether to distribute items in kind, sell or otherwise liquidate items, group or divide items, and select which items are distributed to which recipient. The Executor may make these decisions without obtaining the consent of any beneficiary, and the Executor's good-faith decisions are binding. Unless the Executor determines otherwise, an in-kind distribution is charged at the value the Executor reasonably assigns and need not be equalized item by item.

3.3 Costs and unclaimed items. The Executor may pay reasonable packing, storage, insurance, transportation, sale, and delivery costs from my estate. If a recipient does not claim an item within a reasonable period after notice, the Executor may sell, donate, or discard it, with the net proceeds treated as residue.

ARTICLE IV. DISTRIBUTION OF THE RESIDUARY ESTATE

4.1 Residue defined. After payment or provision for the amounts described in Article II and any specific dispositions under this Will, I give all the rest, residue, and remainder of my estate (my "Residuary Estate") as provided in this Article.

4.2 Primary beneficiary - Client Spouse. If Client Spouse survives me by at least 120 hours, I give the entire Residuary Estate to Client Spouse, outright and free of trust.

4.3 Contingent beneficiaries - descendants. If Client Spouse does not survive me by at least 120 hours, I give the Residuary Estate to my children in equal shares, with the descendants of any child who does not survive me by at least 120 hours taking that child's share by right of representation. Any share passing to a descendant who is under age 25 when the share becomes distributable shall be held and administered under the testamentary trust provisions of Article V.

4.4 No surviving spouse or descendants. If neither Client Spouse nor any of my descendants survives me by at least 120 hours, I give the Residuary Estate in equal shares to Sarah R. Roberts and Howard C. Long, if they survive me by at least 120 hours. If only one of them so survives, that survivor takes the entire gift. If neither survives me by at least 120 hours, the Residuary Estate passes to my heirs at law as determined under Texas law, in the shares they would take if I had died intestate owning that property.

4.5 Survival rule. A person who does not survive me by 120 hours is treated for purposes of this Will as having predeceased me.

ARTICLE V. TESTAMENTARY TRUST FOR YOUNG BENEFICIARIES

5.1 Creation and beneficiaries. If property is distributable under this Will to a descendant of mine who has not reached age 25, the property shall be set aside as a separate trust share for that descendant (the "Beneficiary"). Each such trust is created at my death and becomes irrevocable when funded. If more than one descendant is entitled, each has a separate share, administered separately.

5.2 Trustee. I appoint Sarah R. Roberts as Trustee of each trust created under this Article. If Sarah R. Roberts fails or ceases to serve, I appoint Howard C. Long as successor Trustee. A successor Trustee has all powers granted to the original Trustee. No Trustee is required to furnish a bond, except to the extent a court determines a bond cannot be waived under applicable law.

5.3 Discretionary distributions. Until final distribution, the Trustee may distribute to or for the benefit of the Beneficiary as much of the net income and principal as the Trustee, in the Trustee's sole and absolute discretion, considers advisable for the Beneficiary's health, education, maintenance, support, comfort, and general welfare. The Trustee may make payments directly to the Beneficiary, a parent or guardian, a school, a health-care provider, or another person or institution furnishing goods or services for the Beneficiary. The Trustee may consider other resources known to the Trustee, but has no duty to do so.

5.4 Accumulation and administration. Any net income not distributed shall be added to principal. The Trustee may make unequal distributions among beneficiaries or among separate shares and is not required to preserve equal balances. A distribution for a Beneficiary does not constitute an advancement against any other share unless the Trustee expressly determines otherwise in a signed writing.

5.5 Distribution at age 25; 21-year maximum. When the Beneficiary reaches age 25, the Trustee shall distribute the remaining trust property to the Beneficiary outright, free of trust. Notwithstanding that age-25 direction, each trust share shall terminate no later than the 21st anniversary of the date that share is first funded. If that 21st anniversary occurs before the Beneficiary reaches age 25, the 21-year limit controls and the Trustee shall distribute the remaining property outright to the Beneficiary at that time. Thus, age 25 is the intended distribution age, subject to this absolute 21-year duration limit.

5.6 Death of Beneficiary. If the Beneficiary dies before receiving the entire share, the remaining trust property shall be distributed to the Beneficiary's then-living descendants by right of representation, subject to this Article for any recipient under age 25. If the Beneficiary leaves no then-living descendants, the remaining property shall be distributed to my then-living descendants by right of representation; if none, to my heirs at law under Texas law as if I had died owning that property.

ARTICLE V. TESTAMENTARY TRUST FOR YOUNG BENEFICIARIES (CONTINUED)

5.7 Spendthrift protection. Before actual receipt by a beneficiary, no interest in income or principal of a trust created under this Will may be voluntarily or involuntarily assigned, transferred, pledged, anticipated, or encumbered, and no such interest is subject to attachment, execution, bankruptcy process, or claims of creditors, to the fullest extent permitted by law. This restriction does not prevent the Trustee from making a distribution authorized by this Will.

5.8 Trustee's general powers. In addition to powers provided by Texas law, the Trustee may, without prior court order and in the Trustee's discretion: retain any property received; invest and reinvest in any kind of property or investment; sell, exchange, lease, partition, improve, insure, repair, manage, or abandon property; grant options and execute deeds and other instruments; borrow money and encumber trust property; vote securities and exercise ownership rights; settle, compromise, arbitrate, or litigate claims; employ and compensate attorneys, accountants, investment advisers, custodians, and other agents; allocate receipts and expenses between income and principal; make distributions in cash or in kind, in divided or undivided interests, and at values determined in good faith; and execute all instruments reasonably necessary to administer the trust.

5.9 Reliance and liability. A Trustee may rely on information reasonably believed to be genuine and on advice of counsel or other professional advisers. A Trustee is not liable for an act or omission except for the Trustee's own breach of trust, bad faith, willful misconduct, or gross negligence, as applicable law may require. The Trustee may be reimbursed from trust property for reasonable expenses and liabilities incurred in good-faith administration.

5.10 Accounts and reports. The Trustee shall keep reasonable records and provide accountings or information to beneficiaries as required by Texas law. To the extent permitted by law, a beneficiary's parent or court-appointed guardian may receive notices and information for a minor beneficiary. No court supervision is intended except as required by law or ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction.

ARTICLE VI. GUARDIANSHIP NOMINATIONS

6.1 Permanent guardian. If a guardian of the person or estate of any minor child of mine is required, I nominate Sarah R. Roberts as guardian. If Sarah R. Roberts is unable or unwilling to serve, I nominate Howard C. Long as successor guardian. I request that each serve without bond to the fullest extent permitted by law. The Trustee, rather than a guardian of the estate, should hold and administer any property held in trust under Article V.

6.2 Temporary local guardian. Until the permanent guardian can take possession of and assume responsibility for a minor child, I nominate Michael T. Fisher to serve as temporary local guardian of the child's person, subject to court appointment and all applicable law. This nomination is intended to provide continuity of care only; it does not authorize any person to act as guardian without any appointment or authority required by law.

6.3 Court appointment required. These nominations express my wishes and are subject to the jurisdiction and appointment requirements of a Texas court. I request that the court give effect to these nominations to the fullest extent permitted by Texas law.

ARTICLE VII. EXECUTOR AND ADMINISTRATION

7.1 Appointment. I appoint Client Spouse, Thomas A. Parsons, to serve as Independent Executor of my estate. If Client Spouse does not qualify or ceases to serve, I appoint Sarah R. Roberts as successor Independent Executor. A successor shall have the same powers and authority as the original Executor.

7.2 Independent administration. I direct that my estate be administered independently, without the necessity of action by or under the order of any court, except for proceedings required by law, including admission of this Will to probate and any court action necessary to establish or protect the estate or a fiduciary. I request the court to grant my Independent Executor all authority available under Texas law.

7.3 Bond and compensation. No bond or other security shall be required of any Executor to the fullest extent permitted by law. The Executor is entitled to reimbursement for reasonable expenses and to reasonable compensation as allowed by Texas law, unless the Executor waives compensation in writing.

7.4 Powers generally. In addition to powers granted by Texas law, my Executor may, without prior court order, take possession of, collect, manage, maintain, insure, repair, improve, sell, exchange, lease, partition, distribute, abandon, or otherwise deal with estate property; continue, reorganize, or liquidate a business; borrow money and grant security interests; settle or compromise claims; prosecute or defend actions; employ professionals and pay them from the estate; make tax elections; and execute instruments necessary or appropriate for administration.

7.5 Sale and distribution. My Executor may sell estate property at public or private sale, for cash or on credit, and may distribute property in cash or in kind, in divided or undivided interests, using values determined in good faith. My Executor may make non-pro rata distributions and may allocate particular assets to beneficiaries, subject to the dispositive provisions of this Will and the rights of each beneficiary.

7.6 Fiduciary roles. A person may serve in more than one capacity under this Will. Each fiduciary shall keep the property and records of each capacity reasonably identifiable and shall act in the applicable fiduciary capacity when exercising its powers. No person is disqualified from serving as Executor solely because that person may also be a beneficiary or Trustee.

ARTICLE VIII. ADDITIONAL EXECUTOR AND TRUSTEE POWERS

8.1 Title and possession. My Executor may take possession of and control estate property, determine whether property is to be retained or sold, and hold legal title as needed for administration. My Executor may distribute a share directly to a beneficiary, to a Trustee under this Will, or to a custodian or guardian authorized by law, as appropriate.

8.2 Claims and litigation. My Executor may pay, contest, settle, release, or compromise claims by or against my estate; prosecute or defend proceedings; and make any settlement the Executor considers advisable. A receipt or release executed by the Executor is binding on the estate to the extent permitted by law.

8.3 Tax and elections. My Executor may prepare, sign, and file tax returns; make, decline, or revoke elections available under federal or state law; allocate tax attributes; and determine whether taxes, expenses, or deductions are charged to income or principal or to particular shares, in each case in good faith and subject to applicable law.

8.4 Digital assets and records. To the extent permitted by law and subject to any controlling user direction, my Executor may access, manage, preserve, transfer, or close my digital assets, electronic communications, accounts, devices, and records, and may request disclosure of the content of electronic communications as my lawful agent for estate administration.

8.5 Trustee powers incorporated. The powers in Article V are in addition to, and not in limitation of, any powers granted to my Trustee by Texas law. A Trustee may exercise those powers as reasonably necessary to manage and distribute trust property, including the power to sell estate or trust property and distribute sale proceeds or property in kind.

ARTICLE IX. CONSTRUCTION AND GENERAL PROVISIONS

9.1 No-contest provision. If a beneficiary, directly or indirectly, unsuccessfully contests this Will or any provision of it, that beneficiary forfeits any benefit under this Will, except that this provision shall not be enforced against a person who brings a contest in good faith and with just cause as provided by Texas law.

9.2 Simultaneous death. If the order of death of Client Spouse and me cannot be established by clear and convincing evidence, Client Spouse shall be deemed to have predeceased me for purposes of this Will. The 120-hour survival rule in Section 4.5 otherwise applies.

9.3 Severability. If any provision of this Will is held invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall remain effective to the fullest extent possible.

9.4 Headings. Headings are for convenience only and do not limit or affect the meaning of any provision.

9.5 Governing law and situs. The validity, construction, and administration of this Will and any trust created under it shall be governed by Texas law, except to the extent mandatory law of another jurisdiction applies to particular property. The initial situs and principal place of administration of each trust shall be Texas. The Trustee may change the place of administration when the Trustee determines the change is in the beneficiaries' interests and is permitted by law.

9.6 No implied gift. A person is not entitled to receive property under this Will merely because the person is mentioned by name or described in a fiduciary or other capacity. A gift is made only where this Will expressly provides for it.

9.7 Exercise of powers. A fiduciary may act in good faith and in the exercise of reasonable judgment under the circumstances. A power granted by this Will may be exercised as often as appropriate and may be exercised through an authorized agent, subject to applicable law.

9.8 Definitions and Texas law. If this Will does not provide a specific rule, applicable Texas law governs. A reference to a Texas statute includes any successor provision. Any provision intended to waive bond, avoid court supervision, or grant a fiduciary power applies only to the extent permitted by law.
